

Different cultures are seen throughout the Fechin House. This living room fireplace was made using Southwestern adobe (a brick made from clay, straw and sand) and includes Russian design elements such as the upside-down triangle.

